JESS WALTER BOOK READING

Jess Walter, Spokane author of "Citizen Vince" and a number of other books, gave an outstanding presentation at Create Arts Center in April. As a part of the Book One - Read Across America Program, Create partnered with the Newport Public Library to bring the author to Newport. Walter presented an entertaining reading from his book as well as extensive background material on the writing process. An informative question-and-answer session followed the presentation as well as book-signing by the author. Refreshments were provided by members of the Diamond Lake Book Club.

RHUBARB FESTIVAL SEEKS ARTISTS AND BAKED GOODIES

The Annual Rhubarb Festival is back, bigger and better than ever! Sponsored by Create Arts Center, the festival will take place on Saturday, June 13th. 10' X 10' booth spaces will house a bevy of area artists and artisans selling wares as varied as jewelry, fired tiles, laser-cut metal saw blades, plants, herbs and paintings.

A bake sale of donated goodies made by talented local bakers is a popular feature of the festival. In addition, Create's signature Rhubarb Shortcake will, once again, be sold by the slice. The popular Create Arts Center Rhubarb Cookbook will be for sale, as well. In addition, the new wood fish and minnows will be available for a nominal fee of $15 or $3 respectively. Sales proceeds benefit Create Arts Center Programs including concerts, performances, book readings and childrens' summer arts activities.

Anyone who likes to bake is asked to donate rhubarb pies, cakes and other goodies for the Festival. If it's not a deep, dark family secret, please include a copy of your prized recipe for others to enjoy.

An art exhibit, "Rhubarb and Other Growing Things", will be on display during the month of June. Artists may enter pieces which reflect the title's theme.

FOR DETAILS ON PARTICIPATING IN ANY OF THE RHUBARB FESTIVAL EVENTS AND/OR DONATING BAKED GOODS, PLEASE CONTACT CREATE ARTS CENTER AT 447-9277.

Featured Artist: Howard W. Wildin ||

In 1960 Howard graduated from the University of Washington with a degree in Political Science. After spending the next three years in Europe courtesy of the US Army, Howard began his business career. In 1973 after years in Real Estate, Finance and as an Escrow company owner and manager he began to teach part-time at the local colleges "because it was good for business." In 1977, Bellevue Community College offered him a full-time tenured position on the faculty as the Director of the Real Estate Resource Center and Chairman of the Real Estate Program or, as Howard likes to tell it, "the opportunity to cut my income by 60%" He took it.

In the summer of 1998, while investigating possible retirement locations, Howard made his way to Pend Oreille County. His introduction to the "arts" scene was an Open Mic night at the CREATE Place; and we discovered that Howard played both piano and guitar, and could sing. Howard bought his house that summer; rented it for the winter and returned to Seattle to retire and sell his house there: and moved to Newport in the summer of 1999.

That fall, in an attempt to replace the sense of excitement he got from standing before a classroom full of students, Howard answered an ad for auditions for Pend Oreille Players. Over the next five years he played many roles in many local productions. His favorites: the homicidal brother Jonathan in Arsenic and Old Lace; Clarence Day in Life with Father; "for the sheer fun of it, playing Aslan the Lion with all those kids' in C.S. Lewis' The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe; and the part of the Old Actor ;' with an incredibly talented cast' in The Fantastiks.

THE FOLLIES

Howard says that he was born 60 years too late. He loves the mayhem of vaudeville and his favorite music was written between 1880 and 2930. He began his foray into yesteryear by directing portions of A Little Afternoon Music and the Fall Spectacular in 2001 - both dealing with turn-of-the-century music. The first Follies (Feb 2004) was born in a fashion somewhat like those old Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland movies, "I know, let's put on a show!" As Howard puts it: "gathering my friends about me, and anyone else who had no shame, we put together the wildest, weirdest show ever seen locally. It was so much fun that the cast that weren't on stage would gather in the wings just to watch what was going to happen. It wasn't even remotely the same from night to night. I had always wanted to do a vaudeville show; and I had done it!"

The problem arrived the week after The Follies closed. "While in Safeway I was approached by a Follies-goer who exclaimed: "That was great! What are you going to do next year?" Each year Howard writes and entirely new play, selects the music, casts the play, produces and directs it. Each year all proceeds from the play are donated to local non-profits and the Newport School District. Howard says that as long as it's still fun he'll continue to do it.

Howard is a Life Member and has always been a great supporter of the Create Arts Center.

Howard is a collector of old sheet music, so if you have a box in the attic and you don't know what to do with it give him a call.

CREATE WORK DAY
SATURDAY, JUNE 6th, 9:00 A.M. till 2:00 P.M.

We need you!! Create has been a busy place over the past year, hosting many classes, programs, art shows and perform mances. As a result, the building and grounds are in need of repair, renovation, painting, cleaning and other preventative maintenance. Create is a volunteer participation organization and it is only with the dedication and volunteering of many members and friends of Create that we can keep the premises in tip-top shape.
The yard and garden area are also in need of sprucing up after the long, hard winter that we encountered. We would welcome Master Gardeners that keep the demonstration area in masterful condition to participate with us on June 6th as we work in the yards and on the building.
What to bring -- Lots of Energy, work gloves, yard tools, trimmers, etc. Come and stay as long as you are able, 1 hour or 5 hours will be a great help. Saturday June 13th will be Rhubarb Festival 2009 and this will be our opportunity to get many of the necessary projects done prior to the festival. Create will provide hot dogs on the barbeque and soft drinks at noon for those participating.

WATER-WISE DEMONSTRATION GARDEN CELEBRATES 10 YEARS

It was over 10 years ago that CREATE approached the WSU Master Gardeners with an interesting proposition. Would the gardeners consider joining into a cooperative venture to help landscape an area in the northwest corner of the CREATE property? The land itself and irrigation water would be provided by CREATE while the Master Gardeners would design, build, plant and maintain the garden area. Of course, the Pend Oreille County Master Gardeners, along with many other local volunteers and contributors, jumped at the chance to become involved in such a worthy community project and the Water-wise Demonstration Garden was born. The garden, now open to the public every day of the week from dawn until dusk, was designed not only to provide enjoyment to its visitors but to also teach water-wise and low maintenance gardening techniques.
First, the soil was improved and heavily mulched to hold in precious water, reduce weed problems and protect plant roots from extreme temperatures. Fences and a gate were installed to keep out the neighborhood deer population. Hardy, drought resistant trees, shrubs and perennials were planted, many of them natives that are well adapted to our climate. A pergola was built at the entrance to create a microclimate to protect and nurture plants that need cooler temperatures and more shade. The wide, meandering gravel path and flagstone areas reduce planting and irrigation needs while providing easy access to all parts of the garden. Turf grass was kept to a minimum since grass lawns require high maintenance and large amounts of water.
Several benches have been installed to provide seating for visitors wishing to linger a while and enjoy the garden. Rocks, sculpture, and garden whimsy are scattered throughout the garden and bird and bat houses invite wildlife that help control insects. Just several years ago, an efficient drip irrigation system was installed that delivers precise amounts of water only to certain plants and never to areas that do not need water. An informational brochure and a detailed plant list were designed and are available from a brochure box just inside the garden entrance. And the most recent additions are updated informative labels for each plant species found within the garden.

Master Gardeners are currently pruning, weeding and cleaning the garden after a long, cold winter and should have everything looking at its best just in time for the CREATE Rhubarb Festival on June 13th. At that time there will be Master Gardeners on hand visiting with folks, answering gardening questions and selling potted rhubarb plants to help fund their educational programs. While at the Rhubarb Festival, be sure take the opportunity to visit the Water-wise Demonstration Garden. Not only will you see water-wise gardening techniques in action but you will also see what good things a little cooperation between organizations can accomplish.
